PREFACE

The Inventory of Federal Archives in the States is one of the products of the work of the Survey of Federal Archives, which operated as a nation-wide project of the Works Progress Administration from January 1, 1936 to June 30, 1937, and has been continued since that date as a unit of the Historical Records Survey, also operating as a nation-wide project of the Works Progress Administration.

The plan for the organization of the Inventory is as follows: Series I consists of reports on the administration of the Survey, acknowledgments, and general discussions of the location, condition, and content of Federal archives in the states. Succeeding series contain the detailed information secured by workers of the Survey, in inventory form, a separate series number being assigned to each of the executive departments (except the Department of State) and other major units of the Federal government. Within each series No. 1 is a general introduction to the field organization and records of the Governmental agency concerned; the succeeding numbers contain the inventory proper, separate numbers being assigned to each state in alphabetical order. Thus, in each series, the inventory for Alabama is No. 2, that for Arizona No. 3, that for Arkansas No. 4, etc.

For each local office information regarding each series, or units of related records, is presented in the following order: title, inclusive dates ("to date" indicating an open file at the time the information was secured), general description of informational content, description of the system of filing or indexing (if any), a statement of frequency and purpose of use, form of the record itself (bound volumes, sheets in folders, etc.), linear footage, description of the containers, physical condition of the records (not stated if satisfactory), location by room number or other identifying information, and finally, the number of the Form 58SA on which this information was originally recorded by a Survey worker and from which it was abstracted for the Inventory. This form is on file in The National Archives. When it contains substantial information on addenda sheets which has not been included in the mimeographed abstract, indication of this is given by use of the reference "See addenda."

In Maryland the work of the Survey was under the direction of Mr. Van Arsdale Turner, regional director for Maryland, Delaware, and New Jersey, from its inception until June 30, 1937. From that time until April 1, 1938 the project was under the direction of Miss Rita Macht. Mr. Walter F. Meyer, State Director of the Historical Records Survey, undertook to supervise the project from April until June, 1938 with Mrs. Alma Powell as research assistant. At that time Mr. Carl N. Everstine was appointed to direct the work of the project. This Inventory of the records of the Federal Courts in Maryland was prepared in the Baltimore office of the Survey and was edited before final typing by Mr. Richard R. Stenberg of the Washington office. The various units of the field work for this Inventory were begun and completed during the period from March, 1936 to June, 1937. The precise dates are in each instance mentioned on the Form 58SA on file in The National Archives.

This book has been completed with the aid of mimeographing facilities and materials furnished by the Historical Records Survey of Maryland.

INTRODUCTION

The Judiciary Act of 1789, approved on September 24 of that year, created a Federal District Court for each state, and three Circuit Courts. Maryland was placed in the Middle Circuit, which also included Pennsylvania, Delaware, and Virginia. The Circuit Courts were to be held by the District Judge and Supreme Court Justices, two of whom were delegated to each Circuit. The District Courts were to have jurisdiction over lesser crimes, admiralty cases, and cases affecting consuls. To the Circuit Courts were given general civil jurisdiction and appellate jurisdiction from the District Courts.

This same act provided that the District Court for Maryland should sit twice a year at Baltimore and twice a year at Easton, on the Eastern Shore; the Circuit Court was to sit alternately at Annapolis and Easton. By an act of March 3, 1797, however, it was provided that thereafter the Circuit Court should sit alternately at Annapolis and Baltimore. By an act of April 29, 1802 it was provided that thereafter both the District Court and the Circuit Court should be held only at Baltimore. By an act of March 21, 1892 another change was made in providing that the District Court should hold two terms a year at Cumberland. By an act of March 3, 1925, two terms a year were to be held also at Denton, provided that suitable accommodations were provided without cost to the United States. Because of the lack of suitable accommodations at Denton, sessions have been held at Easton since 1934.

The first session of the District Court (called in the record an Admiralty Court) was held at Baltimore Town on April 17, 1790. The Hon. William Paca as Judge, Nathaniel Ramsay as Marshal, and Joshua Barney as Clerk, were in attendance. The Court then adjourned until April 19, when it met again, and David McMechin, Zebulon Hollingsworth, Archibald Robinson, and William Owings qualified as attorneys.

The first session of the Circuit Court was held on May 7, 1790, presumably at Annapolis. Justice Blair of the Supreme Court and District Judge Paca were in attendance, with Richard Potts as U. S. Attorney, Nathaniel Ramsay as Marshal, and Joshua Barney as Clerk. Justice Blair delivered a charge to the Grand Jury, which withdrew and was shortly after discharged, having no business before it. The attorneys who qualified at the first session were Robert Smith, Philip Cook, Philip Barton Key, William Craik, William Kelty, and Gabriel Duval. The next term of the Court was held on November 9, 1790 at Easton. The Court met for the next few years alternately at Annapolis and Easton, having comparatively little business to perform. The work of the Circuit Court was more varied than that of the District Court and apparently more interesting, but the volume of business was not large.

By the so-called "Midnight Judges Act" of March 20, 1801 the number of Circuit Courts was raised to six; and Philip Barton Key, of Maryland, and George Keith Taylor and Charles Magill, both of Virginia, were appointed Chief Judge and Associate Judges, respectively. The minutes show that these judges presided over sessions in Baltimore on November 5, 1801 and held Court on March 20, 1802, at Evans Inn, although the act under which they were appointed had been repealed on March 2, 1802.

By an act of April 29, 1802, six Circuit Courts were again established but no special Circuit Judges were appointed until after the act of April 10, 1869. Judge Hugh Lennox Bond took office on August 4, 1869 and continued as Circuit Judge until 1893. In 1891 the appellate jurisdiction of the Circuit Courts was abolished upon the creation of the Circuit Courts of Appeal, Maryland being included in the Fourth Circuit; and in 1912 the old Circuit Courts were abolished, and their jurisdiction merged with that of the District Courts. From 1893 to 1912 the District Court judges held the sessions of the Circuit Court. Because of the dual character of the District and Circuit judges, the Court Clerk has always served as clerk of each Court.

The Court Minutes do not state in what buildings the Federal Courts sat, other than the Evans Inn, where the March, 1802 session was held by Chief Judge Key and his associates. This is presumed to have been an exceptional location. Extended research and wide inquiry by historians and laymen have failed as yet to ascertain where the Federal Courts were housed prior to 1822, but the writs are marked "returnable at the Court House." The Masonic Hall, begun in 1814 and designed by Maximilian Godefroy, situated on the southeast corner of St. Paul Street and Court House Lane, was not ready for occupancy until 1822. The ground floor was fitted up as the United States Court Room and Clerk's Office and housed the Federal Courts until 1865. It was in this building that Roger Brooke Taney took the oath of office as Chief Justice of the United States before District Judge Elias Glenn on May 28, 1836. On May 28, 1865 the first session of Court was held in the newly erected United States Courthouse at the corner of North and Fayette Streets, on a site formerly occupied by the First Presbyterian Church. In 1899 the Court moved into the new Post Office and Courthouse, fronting on Calvert St. and occupying the block bounded by Calvert, Guilford, Fayette and Lexington Sts. In 1929 the Court was temporarily housed in the Gutman Building, 210 N. Eutaw St., while the old Post Office and Courthouse was demolished and the present building erected in its place. In June 1932 the Court moved into its present spacious quarters on the 5th floor of the new Post Office and Courthouse.

There are seven United States Commissioners in Maryland, located in Baltimore (2), Cabin John, Centerville, Cumberland, Hagerstown, and Salisbury. They are appointed by the District Court and serve as the Court's representatives in their respective areas. The second Commissioner in Baltimore City serves only in the absence of the first; the former, therefore, keeps very few records.

No records of the Courts have been sent to Washington. Proofs of claims in bankruptcy are destroyed after ten years; destruction of any other paper is left to the discretion of the District Court Clerk.

The work of the Conciliation Commissioners is somewhat similar to that of the Referee in Bankruptcy, being confined to giving assistance to farmers. The duty of the Commissioner is to try to keep farmers out of bankruptcy by consultations between the farmer and his creditors and by having the property appraised at its fair and reasonable value. Under the Frazier-Lemke Act, June 28, 1934, the farmer has three years to pay off his creditors if there is any hope of saving his farm. This act is limited to debts existing at the time it became effective. During the three-year stay period while the farmer is paying his creditors the interest on his mortgage stops, and all payments are credited to the principal.

The Conciliation Commissioner reviews the facts of the case and makes a recommendation to the District Judge. The Conciliation Service Commissioners are appointed by the U. S. District Courts in each judicial district and receive twenty-five dollars for each case brought before them. The area under the jurisdiction of the Commissioner is the county to which he is appointed, but the activities of a few Commissioners cover more than one county. At the close of each case, the final report, with original supporting papers, is sent to the District Clerk at Baltimore; only duplicates are retained by the Commissioner, and there are no useless papers. Offices of the Conciliation Commissioner are located in the State of Maryland at the following towns: Annapolis, Bel Air, Berlin, Cambridge, Centerville, Chestertown, Easton, Ellicott City, Frederick, Hagerstown, Salisbury, Towson, and Uniontown.

Note:

This information was abstracted from a paper read by Hon. W. Calvin Chestnut, Judge of the United States District Court for the District of Maryland, before the annual meeting of the Maryland Bar Association at Atlantic City, N. J., July 3, 1936, and published in the Baltimore Daily Record, July 4, 1936.

PROBATION AND PAROLE OFFICER

Post Office and Courthouse
Calvert and Fayette Sts.

This office was established in November, 1930. Its function is to have complete post-sentence authority over all prisoners whose prison terms are longer than one year and one day. The judge may also require from the Parole Officer a complete social history on each prisoner before sentence is passed. After the prisoner is released, the Parole Officer is to find a residence, an advisor, and employment for him. Parolees are required to make monthly reports to the Probation and Parole Officer for the duration of their parole period. The length of probation varies from 6 months to 5 years. Records of this agency are confidential. There are no "useless papers." All reports on juveniles and some miscellaneous reports are sent to Washington. No records are sent in bulk.
